

ABSTRACT

Method and system for assessing a student's understanding of a process that may unfold, e.g., over time and space. The present invention provides a sophisticated approach of directing students to perform self-explanation, and 5 enables instructors to enhance the value of this pedagogical process by providing meaningful and rapid feedback in a classroom setting.